

Keio Longevity Initiative Symposium
“Living to 100: Health and Happiness in an Era of Longevity”

14 December 2017 (THR)
16:00-18:30

Institute of Integrated Medical Research 1F Lounge, 総合医科学研究棟 1階ラウンジ
Keio University, 35 Shinanomachi, Shinjuku-ku, Tokyo

16:00-16:10 Opening speech: Prof. Hideyuki Okano (Keio University School of Medicine)

<Session 1: Special Lecture on Healthy Longevity>

Chair Person: Prof. Nobuyoshi Hirose (Keio University School of Medicine)

16:10-17:00 Prof. Kaare Christensen (University of Southern Denmark)

“The Aging Society: Are we doing well? Are we doing good?”

<Session 2: Interdisciplinary Approach to Healthy Longevity>

Chairperson: Dr. Yasumichi Arai (Keio University School of Medicine)

17:00-17:25 Dr. Kosuke Hashimoto (RIKEN Center for Life Science Technologies)

“The single cell PBMC transcriptome of supercentenarians ”

17:25-17:50 Dr. Junichiro Irie (Keio University School of Medicine)

“Age-associated diseases and clinical application of Nicotinamide Mononucleotide”

17:50-18:15 Dr. Hidehito Niimura (Keio University School of Medicine)

"A cohort study of the oldest-old in Japan: the Arakawa 95+ study"

18:15-18:25 Closing remarks: Prof. Toru Takebayashi (Keio University School of Medicine)

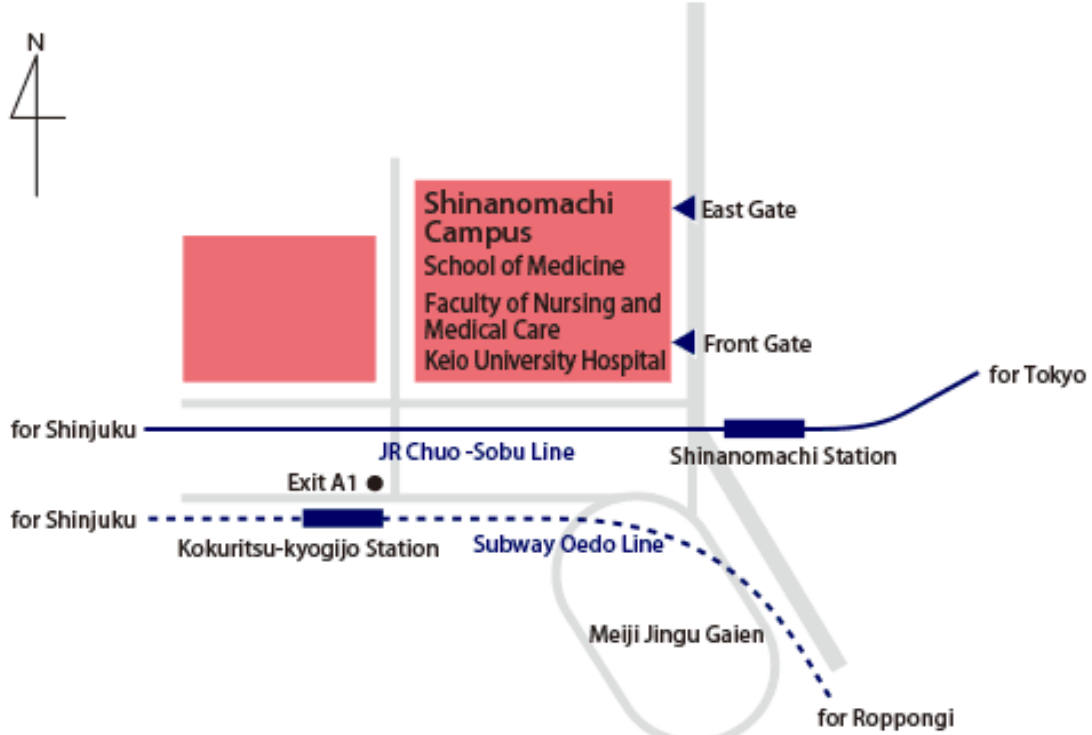

18:30 Reception at restaurant “the Park” (Keio University Hospital)

Supported by Keio University & Danish Ministry of Higher Education and Science

& Royal Danish Embassy Japan

Access to Keio University Shinanomachi Campus
 35 Shinanomachi, Shinjuku-ku, Tokyo

#13 Institute of Integrated Medical Research

